Joan Baez claims CIA 'shadow' here

Folk singer Joan Baez said yesterday she was tailed in Honolulu by the Central Intelligence Agency.

The C.I.A. office here had "no comment" today.

Miss Baez is now at her Carmel Valley, California, home following a concert tour of Japan.

She told the Associated Press she was followed constantly in Honolulu by a man at the conclusion of her Japan tour.

She said the man disappeared only after she said out loud in a Honolulu restaurant, "I'm so famous, I'm followed by the C.I.A."

She said remarks she made in Japan were falsely translated by an interpreter. The interpreter later said he had been pressured into making false translations, possibly by the C.I.A.
